

Happy Summer Term Pheasants,

We hope you had a fab Easter break and have managed to keep that balance of learning ticking over, and having lots of fun too. We are still waiting to find out when we're likely to all be back together at school, so in the meantime, let's keep that learning going strong at home.

We'll keep the same format as last term, with daily maths and English for you to do, your fifteen minutes of fitness with Joe Wicks (or however else you choose to do it), and then lots of other options for you to carry on your own learning in a range of subjects at a pace that's right for you. I'll update these with more options as the term goes on. Remember to have as high expectations of yourself at home just like I'm sure you did last term.

This term, I'd love you to share some pictures of your learning with me at the PheasantClass@lavant.w-sussex.sch.uk email address. I will then upload them to the website (unless you ask me not to of course) to share with your classmates. It will be great for everyone to see what we have all been up to.

Here's to an exciting and learning-filled summer term ☺

All the best,

Mr T and the Pheasant team
